Please review the Grad Slam Presentation Waiver items below.

Acceptance of the Grad Slam Presentation Waiver is required for participation in Grad Slam as a contestant.

- Due to the nature of the competition, we will not ask judges, reviewers, staff, or the audience to sign non-disclosure statements. If your research is being/has been conducted under contract with an outside sponsor, please discuss the related contractual terms on confidentiality and intellectual property with your supervisor before presenting your research project.

- All training sessions and rounds of the competition, including but not limited to oral presentations, are open to the public at large. Any and all of these public sessions may be posted to YouTube and/or broadcast to interested persons through media and/or the Internet.

- Any data or information discussed or divulged in preliminary rounds, semifinal rounds, or the final round by presenters should be considered information that will likely enter the public realm, and presenters should not assume any right of confidentiality in any data or information discussed, divulged, or presented in these sessions. This means if your research includes confidential or culturally sensitive material, you should think very carefully about how you can present this information. We advise that you discuss your competition entry and presentation with your supervisor(s).

- I, First Name Last Name, have read and agree to the statements outlined above, and would like to participate in Grad Slam.
